FIND THE PANELS

Leading Through Economic Turbulence

Egypt's Policy Mix, Reform Gaps & Business Direction

This panel examines how fiscal priorities and monetary policy are shaping the operating environment for business—credit conditions, demand, and investment appetite. It highlights where policy transmission is constrained, and which missing or delayed reforms matter most for competitiveness and confidence. Finance leaders cope by tying scenarios to policy signals, agreeing onboarding triggers for capital decisions, and staying disciplined on investment timing.

AI-Driven Finance Transformation

From Automation to Autonomous Decisioning

Finance leaders are moving past “AI pilots” to decisions that change performance. This panel pinpoints where AI is already delivering real impact—close, planning, controls, and decision support—and what it takes to scale without weakening control. It sets the standards for safe adoption: governance, data integrity, model risk discipline, and clear ownership of outcomes. The focus stays outcome-led: faster cycles, better forecasts, and cleaner assurance.

FIND THE PANELS

ESG, Sustainability & Corporate Value Creation

The New Strategic Mandate

ESG is no longer a reporting layer—it's a value discipline. This panel puts finance leaders in the driver's seat of how sustainability gets translated into profitability, resilience, and long-term enterprise value across the MENA context. Expect a grounded discussion on ESG governance and metrics that stand up to scrutiny, and how ESG is being priced into capital allocation—funding strategy, investment cases, and risk-adjusted portfolios. The focus is execution: embedding ESG across the organization, so it shows up in decisions, not just disclosures.

From Scorekeeper to Value Architect

How CFOs Are Redefining Enterprise Performance

This panel puts the strategic CFO at the center of enterprise performance—partnering with business, operations, risk, and technology to drive better choices across the organization. The panel focuses on redesigning performance management so it governs execution: trade-offs, priorities, and capital allocation as a strategic lever. It pinpoints which metrics matter more, how accountability is built, and how decisions are shaped—and sustained—under pressure.

FIND THE PANELS

Mastering Financial Markets

Synchronizing Finance Strategy, Treasury Agility, and Investor Confidence

This panel delivers a year-end outlook for finance leaders, treasurers, and investment decision-makers, examining interest rate movements, foreign exchange dynamics, and capital market trends in Egypt and globally. The discussion will explore developments across key asset classes, including equities, bonds, and gold, and assess their implications for liquidity management, balance sheet stability, and treasury-led investment decisions. By connecting market signals with finance strategy, treasury agility, and investor confidence, the panel provides practical insights to support informed funding, portfolio allocation, and risk-adjusted investment decisions in an increasingly volatile financial environment.

Leadership That Moves the Numbers

The Women's Edge in Finance

This panel spotlights how women finance leaders are redefining the finance function through strategic judgment, enterprise influence, and leadership that delivers results. Women CFOs and finance executives will share their experience and knowledge of how their perspectives, decisions, and leadership styles have shaped performance, strengthened teams, and influenced organization-wide outcomes.

FIND THE PANELS

Finance Talents Reimagined

From Traditional Skills to Future-Ready Capabilities

In a world where financial performance is won or lost at the team level, CFO success depends on scalable capability—not only individual brilliance. This panel defines what “CFO-ready teams” look like and where CFOs feel the gaps most: bench strength, business partnering, decision quality, and digital fluency. It then shifts to the enablement view—how OD/L&D translate those gaps into role-based skills standards, measurable KPIs, and clear progression pathways. The focus stays practical: how capability is built at scale and sustained.
